SOCIETY CLUBDOM

COLONIAL DAMES MEET TO HONOR STATE PRESIDENT
The members of the local chapter of Colonial Dames held a meeting on Wednesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Thomas Day, on Central avenue, in special compliment to the state president, Mrs. James H. Kirkland, of Nashville, who is the guest of Mrs. Arthur S. Buchanan.

Mrs. C. N. Grosvenor, as the local director, presided over a short business session, during which Mrs. Thomas Day, former director and now a member of the board of managers, gave a report of the biennial held in Washington in May, which she attended as a delegate. Announcement was made that the local chapter would send a Christmas box to the mountain school at Rock Island, Tenn., by which the Colonial Dames stand sponsor, and that the Nashville chapter would send a box to the school at Spencer, Tenn.

The members had the pleasure of hearing a talk from the state president, Mrs. Kirkland, who outlined the work of the Colonial Dames for the coming year. The mountain school work will be continued and the Dames will interest themselves in the Americanization of aliens and also in making good citizens of those of American birth.

A treat was given the members by Mrs. Day, who exhibited to them a set of wonderful miniatures of all the presidents from Washington to Woodrow Wilson. These were the work of Mr. Rowell, of Chicago, who was in Memphis some time ago to make portraits of several prominent Memphians. They are, of course, done on ivory and are framed against a background of velvet. It was suggested that it would be a wonderful collection of miniatures for the Brooks Memorial Art gallery if Memphisians feel they can raise the purchase price of $10,000.

At the conclusion of the business session the Dames enjoyed a delightful conversational hour with Mrs. Kirkland over the teacups.

LIBRARY DEPARTMENT

PRESENTS FACT AND FANCY
Thursday of last week at the Nineteenth Century club was grandmother's day and this Thursday night will be called Children's day, as those contributing to the program of the library department on that afternoon, are mainly children. In "Briar Rose," the little love pantomime, the princess is represented by Miss Frances Magnus, the prince by Miss Mary Lee Early. The musical setting for the pantomime which is beautiful, has been most kindly contributed by Miss Mary Lee Early and Mrs. Georgia Cartwright Lamb.

In the history of the Nineteenth Century club it has enjoyed the pleasure of welcoming the youngest artist that has ever appeared within its walls, little Daisy Lynwood Rapp, aged three years and three months, just returned from an engagement in California. She is the child of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Rapp and a brilliant future is predicted for her.

Commodore Perry Chapter.
Mrs. J. J. Williams proved a charming hostess at the meeting of Commodore Perry chapter, D. A. R., Tuesday afternoon at her home in the Galsford apartments on Union avenue. A large gathering filled the rooms thrown open to the guests.

The regent, Mrs. C. B. Bryan, presided over the usual interesting business session, which always demonstrates the chapter's many activities, among the features of which is the assistance the chapter will give in the approaching tuberculosis drive. Mrs. F. S. Latham, chairman of the chapter's committee in this line of work, will act as a chairman for the week's drive, with her station at the Pantase store, where all members and friends may call for the amount of Red Cross seals they desire. The following members have kindly offered to serve under the direction of Mrs. Latham:

Monday—Mrs. A. W. Whitaker, chairman; Mrs. Berry Brooks, chairman; Mrs. Virginia Proctor.

Tuesday—Mrs. C. H. Johnson, chairman; Mrs. A. B. Carruthers and Miss Frances Johnson.

Thursday—Mrs. Joseph D. Browne,

chairman; Mrs. Mary H. Miller and Miss Miller Ward.

Friday—Mrs. William B. Burns, chairman; Mrs. Tait Butler and C. B. Bryan.

Saturday—Mrs. Charles Podesta, chairman; Mrs. Gordon Williams and F. S. Latham.

The chapter also is taking much interest in the raising of funds for the erection of the sacrifice cross as a fitting memorial for the D. A. R. as a patriotic organization plan. The regent, Mrs. Bryan, and every member of the chapter will work unceasingly for the completion of the cross, feeling that it is a just and worthy expression of the appreciation of patriotic Memphis people for their townsmen, who made the supreme sacrifice.

Mrs. Joseph Browne, chairman of the philanthropic committee, read a letter from Mrs. E. M. Ellis, president of the Tri-State hospital school for crippled children, thanking the chapter for $470, a sum recently raised through a benefit entertainment and which, as Mrs. Ellis states, will purchase very expensive braces for a child, the first one to wear brace paid for out of this sum, a nucleus for a large fund.

Miss Virginia Proctor, the historian, presided over the program. Miss Rachel Matthews gave an artistic rendition of "The Pauls," by Caminade, and Miss Florence Schiess gave in her usual delightful manner two readings appropriate to the month's study, "The Song of Germany," by Sara Beaumont Kennedy, and "The Three Things."

The paper for the afternoon was on the "Evolution of Woman in Germany prior to 1914," and was well handled by Miss Aveline Mathee.

Miss Virginia Frazer Boyle paid a beautiful tribute to John Mills Alden, the late editor of Harper's Magazine, who died recently and who was a friend to young authors.

During an enjoyable social hour the hospitality of Mrs. Williams was concluded in the serving of delicious refreshments in two courses.

The doors will be closed and no one will be admitted into the auditorium during the rendering of a number. This announcement is made by the club president, Mrs. J. F. Hill, who is anxious that those in the audience may not have the beauty of the music marred by the confusion of late comers being seated and that the artist herself may not be disturbed by them.

French Class.

The program for the meeting of the French class of the Nineteenth Century club on Thursday morning at 11 o'clock has been arranged by Mrs. Wharton Jones.

Miss Alice McLaughlin will talk on "Abelard and Heloise" and Miss Louise Loney will have as her subject "The Troubadours," while Mrs. Albert Austin will speak on "Les Trouvères."
